2. Dividend forecast

Mitsui maintains the year-end dividend forecast for the fiscal year ending March 31, 2016, at 32 yen per share as announced on February 4, 2016 at the time of the announcement of the 3rd quarter result for the year ending March 31, 2016.

3. Detail of major losses

(1) Impairment losses for copper projects in Chile (approx. ¥115 billion)

An impairment loss of about ¥90 billion is expected to be recorded at Acrux, an equity-method affiliate that invests in the Chilean copper mining company Anglo American Sur, due to long-term copper price outlook revised in light of market trends and supply-demand forecasts.

An impairment loss of about ¥25 billion is expected in Mitsui's consolidated accounts for the Caserones copper project in Chile, which Mitsui invests in through Minera-Lumina Copper Chile, an equity method affiliate, taking in to consideration its operational situation and revisions to various assumptions.

(2) Impairment loss for an Australian LNG project (approx. ¥40 billion)

An impairment loss of about ¥40 billion is expected at Japan Australia LNG (MIMI), an equity method affiliate that invests in the Browse LNG project in Australia, following a decision to review the development plan caused by deteriorating business environment, which will lead to postponement of commercial operations.

- (3) Consolidating losses at a Brazilian mining company (approx. ¥35 billion)
A loss of ¥35 billion is expected to be consolidated at Valepar, an equity method affiliate that invests in Vale, which announced impairment losses in its 2015 4th quarter results.
